Siobhan Craige, PhD

Affiliation: Assistant Professor, Human Nutrition, Foods, and Exercise, Virginia Tech

Influence of exercise on the microvasculature

The overall goal of my research program is to elucidate the mechanisms by which diet and exercise influence vascular health and the prevention of cardio-metabolic disease. Specifically, I focus on signaling pathways in endothelial cells which are responsible for rapidly reacting to changes in organ demands. Understanding the molecular pathways that respond to diet and exercise will pave the way for targeted therapies in cardio-metabolic disease.

Thursday May 30th, 2019
11:00 AM-12:00 PM
MR5 3005

Hosted by: Gamze Bulut, PhD
Refreshments Served